Class Ode

What friends we have found and what joy we have known
And what progress we've made on the wide road of learning
In just four fleeting years! Oh, how swiftly they've flown!
But, though school days were pleasant, we feel our minds turning
From the progress of yore to achievements in store —
There's no limit nor zone where ambition can't soar.
And whatever the fortunes our fate have decreed,
We'll strive for the best, and we know we'll succeed.
We're grateful to teachers for all they have done —
For clearing our minds of each bias and fetter.
We'll try to complete the work they have begun;
Live lives that are upright, help make the world better.
Different thoughts we shall know, different talents we'll show,
Different ways down the highway of life we shall go —
But whatever the fortunes our fates have decreed,
We'll strive for the best, and we know we'll succeed.

Toast to the Girls

Many poems and ballads have been composed describing the loveliness of the feminine sex. But at this time, the only word I can use that will do justice to the girls of '52 is just plain wonderful.

For four years, our dainty classmates have added warmth and cheer. Their very presence has given us boys the initiative and inspiration to study. Their ready smiles imparted a new light of encouragement when we were feeling low. Their enthusiastic support has led the athlete on to victory when defeat was staring him in the face. Without them we would have been lost.

As the curtain falls on our high school course, we can look back on the friendships we have made with our gracious classmates. Some of these may ripen into lasting attachments, while others will be just casual acquaintances. But we all agree that we have the friendliest, most beautiful, and most charming lassies of any graduating class.

On behalf of all the boys, I sincerely wish each and every girl of 1952, the most happiness and the greatest success possible in the future.

Toast to the Boys

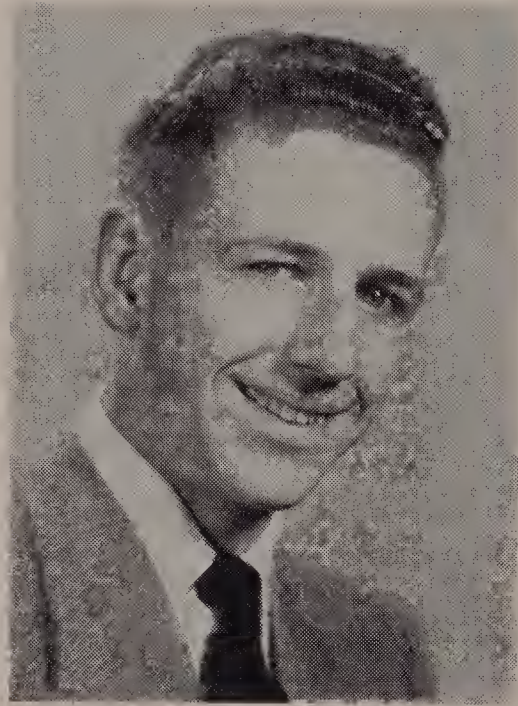

Here's to the boys of '52,
Who played the game so fair and true;
For Lawrence High, they gave their best;
Their efforts always met the test.

In football, baseball, basketball and track,
With spirit and courage, they fought right back;
And whenever they lost, it was O.K.
'Cause they gave their all to carry the day.

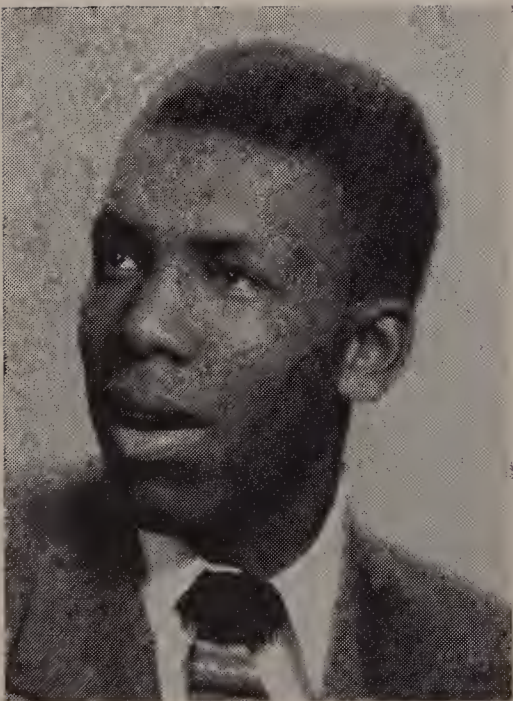

Commencement is here; our four years are done,
They brought us good cheer, they shared in our fun.
Our pleasures were many; the tears were few.
Drink a toast to the boys of '52.

TALENT NIGHT

Cheerleaders

Toast to the Faculty

Here's to our faculty; no two were alike.

To some we listened attentively, as words of wisdom fell from their lips.

We remember others who refused to take our misbehavior to heart.

Those with agile minds kept us always on our toes in the agony of suspense.

We envied a few whose high standards of living we hope some day to equal.

Last but not least, we cherished association with the merry wits and sunny personalities.

Unconsciously, many of us have adopted their cheerful aspect of life, their scholarly attitude, their personal inclinations, their athletic prowess, and even their boundless wisdom, to guide us toward establishing our habits in later life.

We want to wish them Health, Wealth, Happiness and Pleasure.

Health — that they live to a ripe old age.

Wealth — to the greatest extent that gold can glitter.

Happiness and Pleasure — but what happiness and pleasure can there be, after we, the class of 1952, leave?

The faculty of Lawrence High School holds in the hearts of the students the same relationship that Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis have to TV; that Johnny Ray has to teen-agers; that Camels have to thirty day smokers.

They have bestowed upon us, before our leaving, Disraeli's philosophy:

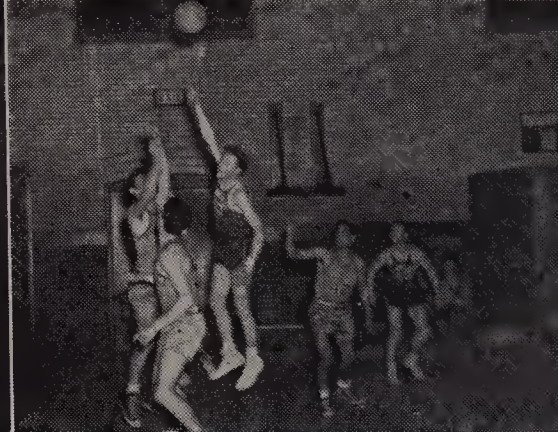

"Keep your standard of knowledge high; attempt great things, expect great things, and you will accomplish great things."

LAURA H. ROZUMEK

Sports

Basketball

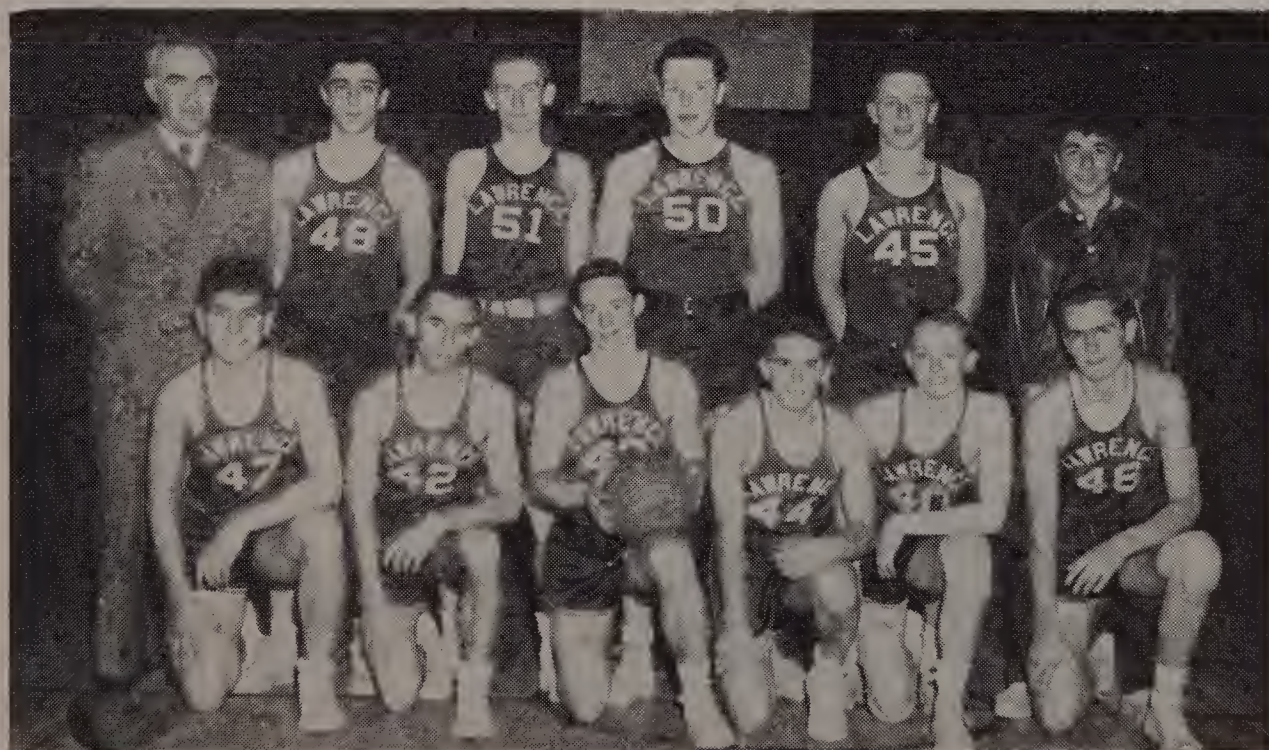

Although Lawrence High won the Essex County League in 1951, the experts regarded this year's squad only lightly when the season opened. Our team had lost its two high scorers of the previous year, Paul Derby and Bill Quinlan and to make matters worse the average height of the group was below normal. However, the boys gave a good account of themselves, winding up in fourth place in league competition. We assumed the role of giant-killers late in the season by giving previously undefeated Gloucester a 54-49 upset, in which Jack Barry threw in 31 points. Playing our hearts out against champion Salem, a team made up exclusively of six-footers, we dropped the decision, 60-50. Barry again had an outstanding night, scoring 32 points. We played Central Catholic, one of the outstanding teams in the state, even in the first half. Overtime thrillers were played with Haverhill and Lynn English. Half of our contests were decided by less than ten points.

In John Collins, we had a good all-around player, hard-driving and aggressive. The other forward was Guy Maccarone, who used his height to advantage in playing the ball off the boards. At center Jack Barry set a new Lawrence High School season's scoring record. He registered 236 points in league play. Captain Jackie Donohue always was an inspiration to the rest of the team with his outstanding defensive efforts. Captain-elect George Giles, at the other guard post, gave the team a strong scoring punch.

Others who saw considerable service included Maurice Leonardi, a hard-driving guard, Ken Atkinson, an aggressive and shifty forward, George Baker, John Sasner, and Nat Mugavero, the only sophomore on the squad. The new policy of limiting play on the junior varsity to freshmen and sophomores should pay off next year. Many promising boys were developed by Assistant Coach Callagy; so prospects are excellent for 1953.

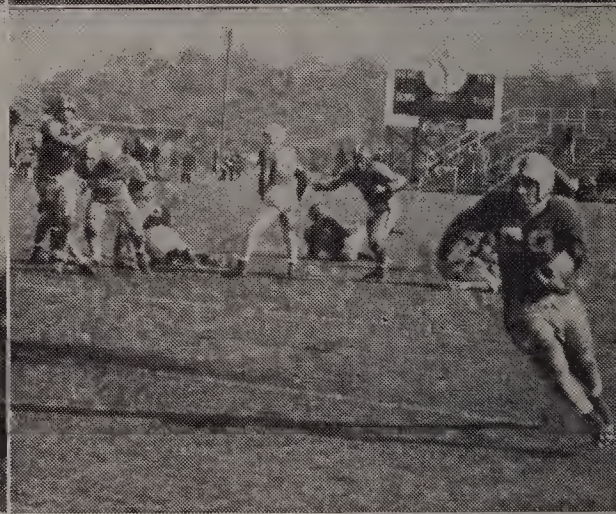

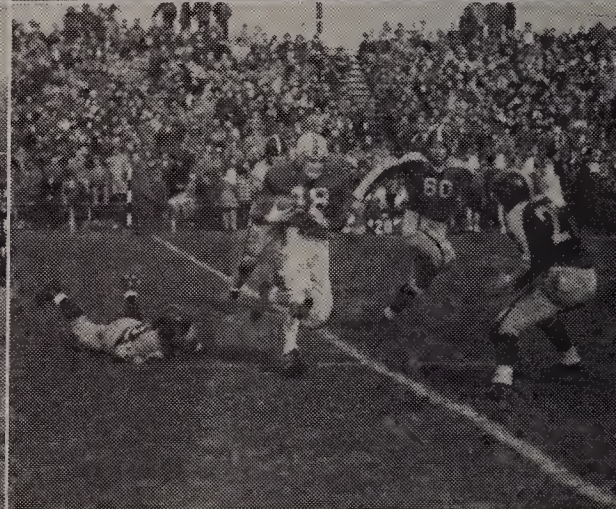

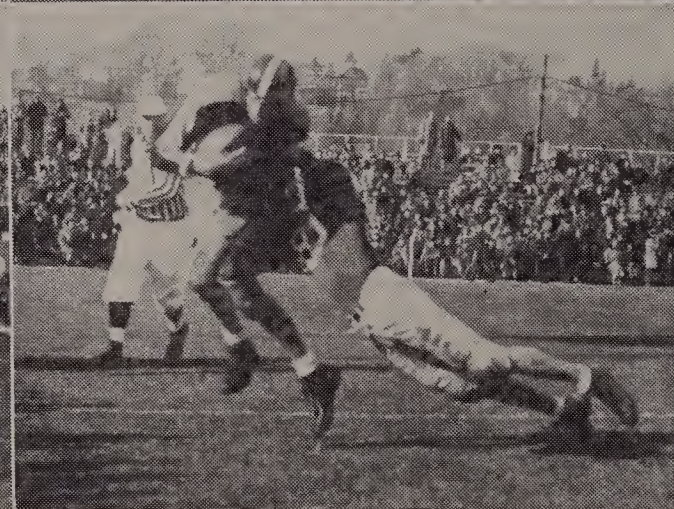

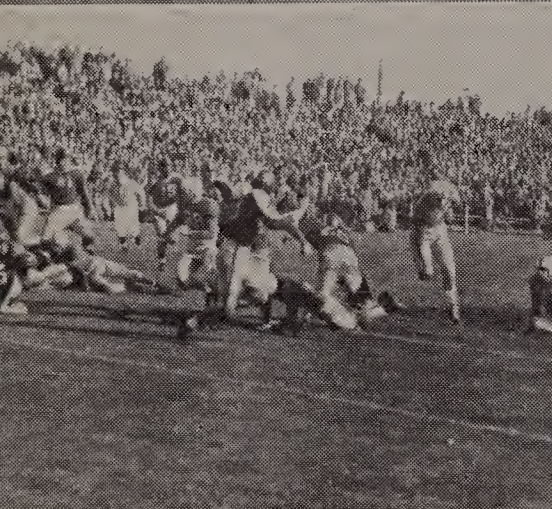

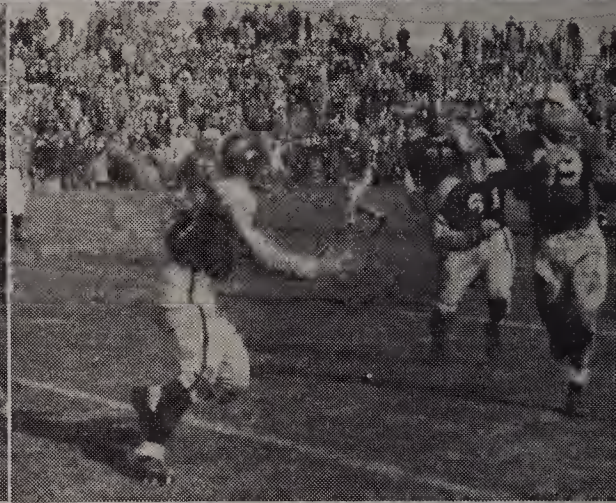

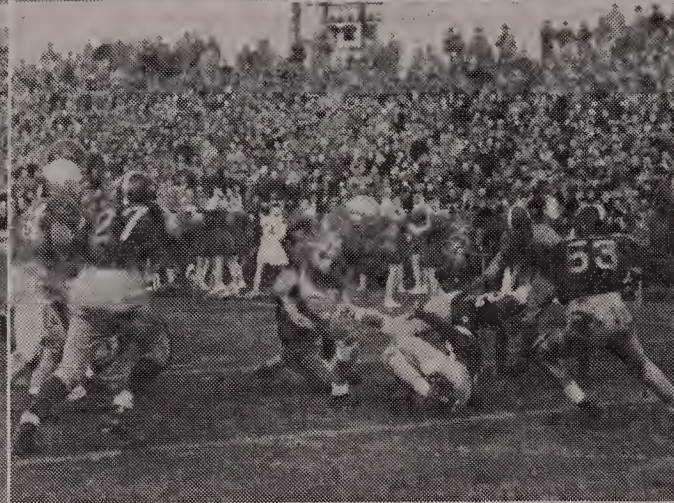

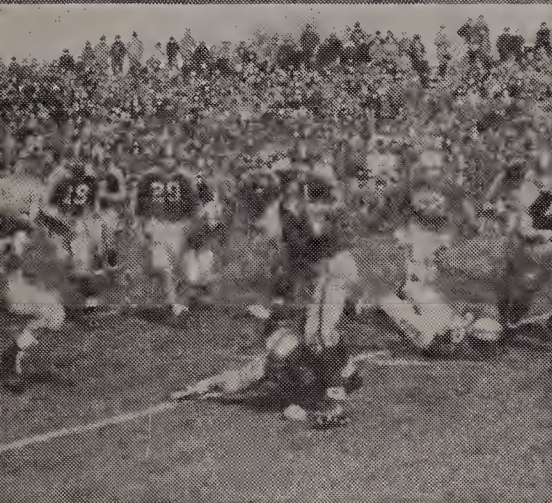

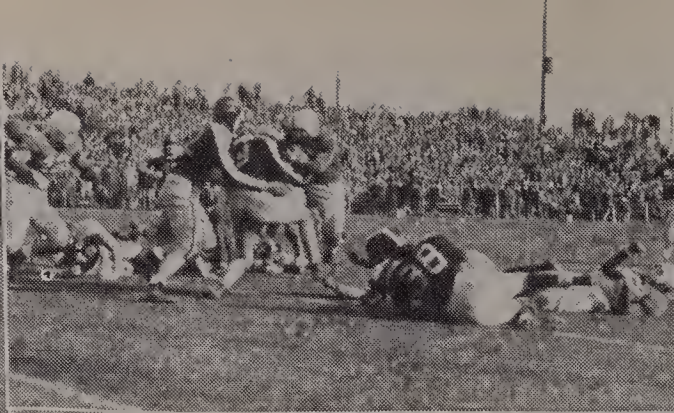

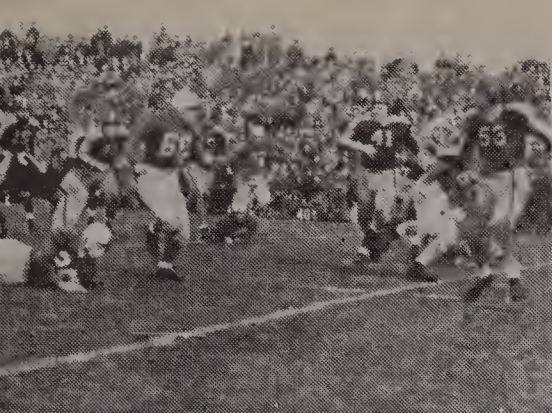

In his first full season as head coach, Mr. Webb produced a team that was a credit to the school. His boys played interesting basketball which showed the results of thorough drill in fundamentals, plus a working knowledge of "inside stuff."

GAETANO MACCARONE.

Football

There were only three lettermen available in the large squad which reported to Coach Jordan when school opened in the Fall. We were at a further disadvantage when called upon to face, after two weeks' practice, opponents who had the benefit of Spring training.

Perhaps the pattern of an ill-starred season was set in the opening game with Keith, when we frittered away a two-touchdown lead and lost, 20-19. Statistically we were superior, twenty first downs to six, and 270 yards gained rushing to 126. Lawrence seemed to lose confidence after bowing in this manner to a team they thoroughly outplayed. Week after week the boys went out on the field and played their hearts out in vain. There was a lack of speed and native know-how, both of which are necessary in developing a winning combination. However, the squad showed a loyal spirit and gritty determination often not found in more successful teams. Attendance at practice was unusually high, and morale in the games was excellent as we carried on with raw courage. Support of a loyal student body was highly appreciated by all the players. The large turnout for the Football Rally held in the gym just before the Lowell game gave the boys an inspiring sendoff. The banquet tendered to the squad at the close of the season by the School Committee was worthy of a championship team. But after all, we were champions in a sense. We played the game in the true American amateur tradition. We gave our best at all times, and we never quit trying.

Prospects for next season are bright. Many lettermen will return. Because of the poor season past, several sophomores and freshmen saw considerable action. These boys showed to advantage at the tail-end of the schedule. Best of luck to Captain-elect Franny Frank. Better days for Lawrence High football are just around the corner.

Baseball

When the season opened, the names of Pedrick, Sweeney, Quinlan, Ball and Corcoran were missing, and Coach Jordan had to screen a list of one hundred candidates in search of replacements. The pitching was in the capable hands of Ed Reming and Joe Cockroft. Lefebre, an able catcher, offered a fine target for the hurlers and contributed much to the success of the club. At first base Bob Sinibaldi, a holdover from last season, handled himself ably and contributed timely hits. Billy Peters gained the second base spot after fighting off some stiff competition from half a dozen other prospects. Greg Krikorian showed to advantage at shortstop and Paul Autiello at third completed the infield.

Captain Maurice Leonardi, who led the 1951 team in batting, covered left field and drove in many runs with his lusty warclub. Joe Previte established himself as a slugger by hitting a home run in an early game. Together with Ed Couto, he completed the first string outfield. John Sarcione, Aime Reming, and Tony Ramos saw considerable service in utility capacities.

Lawrence had a successful season in the Essex County League, which had no outstanding team. The closeness of the competition was pronounced and the league standing was bunched. The experience gained by many of the boys on the junior varsity last season was greatly responsible for the noticeable improvement in our team over that of 1951. Coach Jordan and Assistant Coach Higgins are to be congratulated for the development of a capable outfit.

Track

The 1952 edition of the Lawrence High School track team compiled a record below the average attained in recent years. Ordinarily we have put forth track teams that have won state-wide recognition in Class A. Our school has held a strangle hold on the Essex County championship for two decades. However three factors operated against us this season. In the first place, there were no runners or jumpers of outstanding natural ability around whom a strong team could be built. Last year's team had left us only a handful of lettermen; so it was necessary to rebuild from the ground, depending on inexperienced underclassmen. The cruelest blow came when our coach, Mr. Perry, was seriously injured by a hit-and-run driver and hospitalized just as the candidates were about to be called out at the beginning of the indoor season. In the absence of an instructor our progress was retarded more than a month. To top off our difficulties, the team had no proper facilities indoors for the development of distance runners. Running up and down the corridor of the bottom floor of the annex furnished little opportunity to judge pace for the 600, 1000, or the mile.

While the record of this year's squad was not up to average, the boys worked very hard to overcome all obstacles. Some fine individual performances were given by Captain Jim Purcell, Johnny Mitchell, Javin Foster, Jerry Collins, Ed Constantineau, Larry LaBonte, Fred Hall, George Baker, Joe Elias, Ray Luk, and Bob Ord. The squad will not suffer too heavily by graduation. Since Coach Perry has gained a fine reputation as a developer of track stars over the years, it will not be long until Lawrence will be back at the top of the list in Class A track circles.

CLASS DAY

Class History

1952 holds the distinction of being the first graduating class to have studied four full years under the guidance of Headmaster Augustine J. Lawlor, who became principal in October of our freshman year. Also, we were the last freshman group to be housed in the Oliver School Building, which was pressed into use to take care of the overflow from the crowded high school plant. We were the first freshman class permitted to choose class officers. Our "Freshman Frolics" was a high spot on the school's social calendar.

Our sophomore year saw us transferred to the "big high." For a few days, we felt lost in the vastness of the building and had trouble manipulating locker combinations. Now we were eligible to join some of the school clubs, a situation which made us feel important. During this year, intelligence tests were given to the whole student body for the first time. Our baseball team won the Essex County League and took part in the State Championship Tourney in Boston. Thomas H. McElroy, head of the Latin Department, passed away, and Bernard J. Kiernan was chosen to fill the vacancy. At the end of the year, Ruby Nason retired, and she was replaced as head of the Commercial Department by Edward F. Parthum, Jr.

The Thanksgiving Day game with Lowell was one of the memorable events of our junior year. A questionable decision that was later contradicted by motion pictures of the contest enabled the up-river team to gain a 13-13 tie. Joseph E. Kerrigan, who had been associated with the printing of the Lawrencian since its inception in 1926, died suddenly. Subsequently the destiny of our school publication was placed in charge of William A. Murphy. Forty-five years of service in the Lawrence High School came to an end with the retirement of Mary A. Driscoll, head of the English Department. Andrew J. Moynihan succeeded to this post. The basketball team captured first place in the Essex County League, and we followed them to the Boston Garden to lend our vocal support in the State Tournament.

We took over proprietary right to the school in September of our senior year. It was not long, however, before members of the class began to think of more serious problems. Individuals sought guidance from the faculty in regard to the future. Groups remained in the building after hours to seek assistance for the approaching college entrance examinations. At least a dozen boys left our classrooms to enlist in the Armed Forces. Scores of others thought that their plans would have to wait indefinitely in order to answer the call of Uncle Sam soon after graduation. With the passing weeks, the signs of the end of our high school career became more apparent. The Year Book Committee was formed after Thanksgiving. The class ring was adopted, and we became concerned with graduation pictures. The social whirl went on. The Football Rally, the Cherry Tree Hop, Talent Night, Career Day, the Paul Revere Gallop, and the Senior Prom all went by in a flash. All too soon we were on the threshold of Commencement. When we were green freshmen the four year course seemed to stretch out into the hazy distance; looking back as seniors, we regard it as a brief but very happy interlude, crowded with recollections we shall cherish in our hearts for the rest of our lives.

Dear Steve,

What a vacation! I just couldn't wait to write you a letter telling about the surprising incidents that occurred while I was in Florida, all of which brought back fond memories of our high school days.

Last Saturday I was supposed to leave by bus for Boston on the first leg of the long trip to Florida at 5:30 P. M. All day long before my departure, I was busy with many odds and ends. While paying the telephone bill, I noted Mary Ann MacLauchlan, Patricia Havers and Shirley Valcourt working in the business office. On the way out I ran into several operators who were coming off duty. Some of them looked vaguely familiar, and as they passed me, I recognized Virginia McEneaney, Alice Curtis, Janet Lewis, Jo-Anne Lippo and Christine Condurelli. A few moments later, I was greeted at the door of a big department store by the head sales-woman, Thelma Webster, who showed me some of the latest dresses. She was very proud of them, because they had been designed by Aldona and Adella Kowalsky.

At 5:30 P. M. at the bus terminal, I bought my ticket from Billy Santacroce. Upon turning around, I met face to face with four handsome Air Force captains, Robert Joubert, Charlie Murphy, Bob Sunderland and Kenny Haslam. They were returning to their base in Texas. On boarding the bus, I was greatly surprised to see Bud Khoury in the driver's seat. I sat next to an old friend, Elieen Molloy, who told me about more of the old gang. She is working as a receptionist for the law firm of Previte, Ortstein, Sullivan and Cahill.

Just then the radio overhead started blaring, and we heard disc jockey Colin Munro introducing a record by Maynard Goldman, conductor of the Boston Pops. This record featured Fred Hilse, master of the piano. Nearing our destination, I spied a billboard with a dazzling likeness of Arlene Fiedler advertising swim suits. After saying good-bye to Eileen and Buddy, I hailed a taxi which was operated by Joe Dunlap. Among other things, he told me that Ed McGrath was in charge of the Traffic Division of the Boston Police Department and supervised Bob Ord, Ray Luk, Ray DeNuccio and Ed Craven, all of whom were driving cruisers. Joe invited me to lunch with him and his wife the former Mary Traficante. I excused myself on the grounds that I had to catch an early plane, but promised to try to make it in the near future.

I arrived at Logan International Airport with time to spare. Passing by the news-stand I saw Mary Augeri working as a clerk. In her hand was a copy of Vogue, which had Ann Lynch posing on the cover. As I boarded the plane the voices of the stewardesses seemed to have a familiar ring. On glancing around, I met Ann Donsuso and Marian Greene. After the plane was underway, they stopped beside my seat for a chat, and I learned that Ilene Scott, accompanied by her husband Bernard Courtney, fly frequently back and forth from Hollywood, where she is enjoying a successful career. Our talk was interrupted by a call for food by Tom Johnson, a regular passenger. Sitting next to him was his assistant Edward Sunderland. They are selling DiPietro's Encyclopedia, which is printed by Bob Logan and John Marcello. Just then a good-looking pilot, Ray Lawrence, came strutting down the aisle, leaving the plane in the capable hands of the co-pilot Ed Constantineau. Ray said he had attended pilot-training school with Francis Mosson, Dave DeNuccio, James McLeod, Martin McCaffrey and Dick Robichaud. Landing safely at New York, I spotted a familiar face, Jack Thibodeau, who recognized me as an old classmate and invited me to see the sights of the big city with him.

Our first stop was at the Club Rocco, owned by Rocco Lasden. It is a real exclusive place, rated highly by Dick Langevin in his News About Town column in the New York Times. Playing at the club was Mike Crocco's band, which featured song stylist Stella Couture, accompanied on the piano by Evelyn Myer. Also on the program were Elaine Duquette and Jackie Robinson a remarkable tap-dancing duo. The final act of the floor show was Deacon the Magician. After leaving the club and saying good-bye to Jack, I registered at a hotel owned by John Hollinghurst and his wife, the former Edna May Rostron, who are in partnership with Pat Burke. The desk clerk was Chester Spinney and the switchboard operator, Mary Terlecki. Bright and early the next morning I went to the dining room for breakfast and was greeted by the hostess Stacia Skibo. Later I found out the meal was cooked by four famous chefs, Bill Muenzner, Vinnie DeMarco, John Licciardi and his brother Pat.

On my morning shopping tour, I entered a hat shop operated by Archie Caredeo, where I spotted Eleanor Hirst and Ruth DeCourcy trying on headgear created by Frances Fiola and designed by June Bruneau. My next stop was George Mercier's Dress Shoppe. Working for him were Shirley McGrath, Doris Ebert, Anita Nicolosi, Marie Bucu, Carole Martin, Mary Jane Merrill and Elizabeth Laurenza. Modeling dresses were Jeanette Lambert, Mary Phillips, Claire Noble, Shirley Pomerleau and Eunice Bonin. Next I visited an art gallery conducted by Arthur Soreff which featured great European paintings imported from Paris and Vienna. Finally I reached McGuigan's Ticket Agency where I wished to purchase my ticket for Florida, and I found the clerk was James Riley. Then I hurried to Grand Central Station in one of John Poubin's cabs, driven by George Grenier. On the way we nearly hit a car driven by blonde Ann O'Claire, who was with her friend and physiologist, blonde Alyce Morin. We arrived just as the train was preparing to pull out of the station. My companions on this trip were three stunning Waves, Joanne Tardie, Carol Tomlinson and Ida Gangi, who were returning to their station in Jacksonville, Fla. More news of our classmates was exchanged, and I learned that Barbara Berman and Anne McCormack had remained in Lawrence to teach. Florence Tommasino was happily married in the old town. I turned on my portable radio to catch the Julius Shimkonis program that was about to be broadcasted. He interviewed George Nasser, a great scientist. The feature attraction was the appearance of Patricia Short and Marie Nolet, singing in an enchanting manner the songs they had made famous. Sitting across the aisle were two nurses. A closer look proved to be two members of the Class of '52, Mary Ann Broaca and Theresa Boutin. They told us about three good-looking doctors they worked for, Robert Sinibaldi, Ed Barton and Bob McCarthy. On the same train were a group of professional basketball celebrities, Jack Barry, Jackie Donohue, Moe Leonardi and Guy Maccarone.

During a brief stop at a station, I stepped out to buy a newspaper. Big black letters announced, "California Man Discovers Gold". As I read its detailed account, I learned of the good fortune which came to Bradley Smith. The article was written by a famous reporter, Ray Sciacca. Accompanying the story were pictures taken by three ace photographers, Joe Albers, Dick DeFeo and Ronnie Ford. Just then the conductor of the train, John Minahan, came to warn us to get aboard right away, because the engineer, Ray Rizzo, was a very impatient man. From my paper, which I continued to read on the train, I learned that an old friend, Kathleen Azevedo, was doing well in Hollywood as a second Louella Parsons. Her column included gossip about such famous movie stars as Laura Rozumek, Toni Cocchiaro, Betty Thornton, Grace Taylor and Grace Timmons.

By this time, I was reaching my destination, Miami, and was becoming excited at the prospect of arriving at that great resort city. As the train stopped, I noted a handsome couple standing on the platform. I was pleasantly surprised to discover Marijo Burke and her husband Ralph Bruneault. I was invited to a party they were giving that very night. Since I must have been a sight after such a long trip, I went looking for a beauty parlor. Down the street was the G & F Beauty Salon, owned by Lucy Gucciardi and Mary Fraser. Business is so good that they employ five other girls, Virginia Puglisi, Mary Garvey, Alfrieda Rivela, Joan McNulty, and Leonora Iannazzo. After being prettied-up, I was on my way to the party. Ralph and Marijo live outside Miami at a place called Steele's Beach. Although Dave could not attend the party, there were many other old friends present. After I reached the house, four girls came up the walk, escorted by their husbands. They were Marilyn Gibbons, Kathy McGuinness, Chris Sciacca and Mary Messina. Looking around, I just couldn't believe my eyes, for it was just like a social at L. H. S. An outburst of laughter from a large crowd sitting in the corner was instigated by the antics of Americo Zinno, now a television star. Members of his cast are Robert Curry, Jack Myskowski, Marion Noel, Rosemary Joaquin, Jackie Grillo, Carol Ann Austin, Hilda Fountain and Doreen Boardman. Cameramen from his show included Jim McGowan, Gerald Fleet, John Hogan, Vin Garofalo and Vartkus Perperian. Just then another group of entertainers came in the door. It was Dick Hering's top band, consisting of Joe Carrubba, Frank Coppola, Gaetano Bonanno, Joe Cardello, Pete Diodati and Larry Pilvelis. Two eccentric dancers Barbara Collins and Carmela D'Angelo added their talents to the occasion. Although the house was filled, people were still streaming in. Late arrivals included a group who had just come off duty at a local hospital. They were Dianne Shycoff, Carol Grace, Eleanor Green, Adrienne Ouellet, Bessie Bloom and Grace Laudani. Because they were on night duty, Nancy Peel, Dot Keefe and Irene Marchese could not attend. Four members of our class in attendance, John O'Hearn, Spike Boda, Robert Black and Jack Leach are members of the Florida State Legislature. Another former member of '52 has also gone far up the political ladder, Mayor Thomas Greene of Tampa.

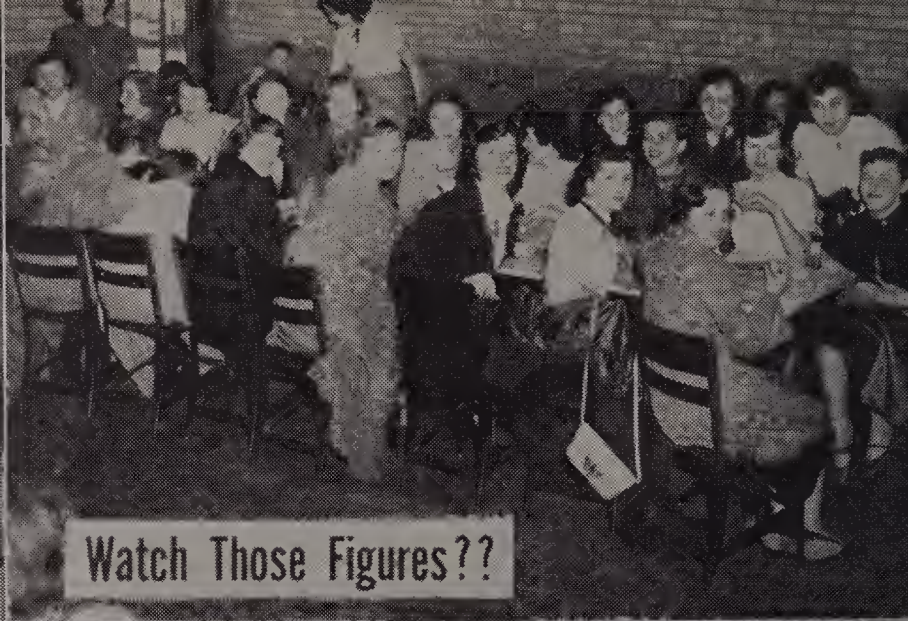

The party was a huge success. Among the happy crowd were Carmela Chiara, Geraldine Duggan, Dotty Ivers, Carol Zinno, Carol Battye, Marjorie DiPrima, Gloria Feole, Bob Johnson, Dick Passler, Rose Alianello, James Bradley, William Towne, Shirley Aziz, Shirley Vogel, Charley Stahle, Dolores LaRiviere, Dolores Fascione and many more. When the party was in full swing, each girl was presented a corsage furnished by the KCD Flower Shoppe, operated by Richard Kane, Bob Cookson and Carmen DeMonaco.

I can't begin to write down the names of all the friends I met today at the party, but it was a great thrill to see some of our old classmates joined together once again, in order to reminisce over the joyful memories of those wonderful years spent at L. H. S.
